MILLBURN, NJ – There were no snowflakes in the air, but the annual Millburn Snowflake Parade was crowded and joyous as the town kicked off the holiday season, and Governor Livingston's marching band, the Highlanders, was one of the highlights of the parade. Featuring a flag team, bagpipes and the marching band, all clad in traditional Scottish kilts, the band played a familiar Highlands tune as they marched down Millburn Avenue.

The annual event featured marching bands from area schools, community groups, local dignitaries and professional bands, clowns, and of course, Santa.

Free refreshments were provided in The Courtyard, and children had the opportunity to have their photo taken with Santa while The Funny Factory Clown Band entertained everyone.
